Railways Put Time Ahead

Watch your steps when you're going to travel. In other words, all trains now come and go an hour earlier than the usual time by your clock, consequently you will have to start an hour or so ahead of the timepiece to make rail connections.

All the Canadian railroads put their time ahead one hour on Sunday last, because of the action of the United States in again passing daylight saving for the coming summer and the consequent great inconvenience in making connections with U. S. railroads unless they followed suit.

The Dominion Parliament turned down the daylight saving proposition for the whole of Canada a short time ago, but nearly all the large cities of Canada, as well as a great number of the smaller urban municipalities, have passed by-laws to put it into force in their municipalities, and the Legislature of the Province of B. C. have passed an Act putting it into force in that Province.

Calgary and Edmonton, however, are staying by the old times so far, consequently the action of the railroads in changing their time is causing confusion by people missing their trains because of the two systems being in force.

The railroads are to show the Railway Commission the why and the wherefore for their actions in putting the new time into effect.

About the only difference it will make to us is the fact that if we are going to travel, it must be remembered that all trains arrive and leave an hour earlier than home time.

Telephone Matters Cause Big Meeting

The meeting held on Saturday afternoon last was very largely attended by both business men and farmers, as was to be expected, and the discussion by those present with Mr. H. B. Atkins, M.L.A., and Supt. Pearce of the Telephone Department, was productive of quite a lot of information regarding the new regulations in telephone matters.

According to the Government representatives it is figured out now that a dividend or charge of 18 per cent alone has to be made for upkeep or depreciation charges to take care of the plant, consequently the rates on the phones have to be raised to help to meet these charges; and the $4.50 on every quarter section the line passes, whether a phone is in use or not, also has to be made or the phone users, it is figured, would have to pay about $46 each per year.

The U.F.A. of Olds, which comprises 138 members, had a delegation present, and they stated that their local was ready to put the phone out. However, the Didsbury local representatives were not prepared to go quite so far, but favored taking the matter up with head of the U.F.A. at Calgary, for combined action, and they to report the result of the public meeting at a meeting of the local U.F.A. to be held on Monday next.

Mr. Dave Irwin was chairman of the meeting and handled it to the satisfaction of all present; in fact it was at his suggestion that no precipitate action was taken by one or two locals, but that the matter be taken up with headquarters for action from all over Alberta.

The farmers of the Olds district certainly support their own local when they have such a strong membership. The farmers of this district are not so well organized, but no doubt the meeting will help to show them that the U.F.A. are looking after their interests.

Will Manufacture Farm Implements In the West

Messrs. J. L. Prout and H. F. Sands of Redcliff, Alta., are spending a few days in the district, arranging for the sale of shares in the Dauntless Manufacturing Company of Redcliff, Alta.

This company has received the consent of the Public Utilities Commission at Edmonton to place stock in the Province, and the Company was organized amongst the farmers of Southern Alberta.

They now have purchased a large machine shop, with part of the equipment installed, and built a foundry in which is being installed an open hearth steel furnace, which will convert the scrap iron of this Province, or pig iron for the smelter, into steel and steel castings for the use of the implement manufacturing business, which the Company propose to build around this first unit of their undertaking, which will overcome the long haul freight rates from far outside points.

There is no promotion stock in the Dauntless Manufacturing Company which has a capital stock of $125,000 in common shares, with approximately one-half disposed of. The present policy of this Company is to sell its products to shareholders at 10 per cent. over cost, and the shares are selling at $50 each at par value.

The officers and directors of the Company are: D. W. Brown, president, Redcliff; J. L. Prout, managing director, Redcliff; T. Erwin, vice-president, Winbourne; N. Ross, secretary-treasurer, Redcliff; W. McAllister, farmer, Excel; T. Lees, farmer, Oyen; G. A. Pool, farmer, Burdette; T. Hagel, farmer, Beiseker; J. W. Snell, farmer, Oyen.

W.C.T.U. Meeting

The parlor meeting of the W.C.T.U., which was held at the home of Mrs. J. V. Berscht Wednesday afternoon, was largely attended, twenty-eight ladies being present.

Mrs. J. McMillan of Red Deer, via representative of Central Alberta, addressed the ladies on W.C.T.U. work, and on the care of the body, using the chart for illustrations. A dainty lunch was served and everyone left feeling that the two hours were well spent.

FOUNDED ON A ROCK.

The Pueblo of the Acoma Indians in New Mexico.

A traveler from New Mexico was telling the other night of the wonders of that country.

"You have all heard the advice about building on a rock, I suppose," said Dr. Well, "to see that injunction carried out in the letter you should visit the Acoma Indians. Their pueblo is built on a mesa rising 300 feet from a comparatively level stretch.

"They tell a funny story about how they came to land on the top of such a huge rock. It seems that they were formerly located on another rock, and one day when they were all out working along came a great rainstorm and wiped off the map the only path leading up to their rock city. Well, there was nothing for it but to climb up another rock, and they took a life lease of their present location.

"It's a picturesque place when one gets up there. The houses are built of adobe, and one has to get out of doors to get upstairs. You see, they have a ladder up which they climb to get into the second story.

"They have ways of their own of cooking. They grind their flour in a trough with stones. They grind the wheat as a woman washes clothes and spread it to dry on an old shawl. That part of it may look simple, but I tell you it takes some skill to spread a thin batter over a redhot soapstone as they do when baking. When it is done, they take hold of one corner and lift it off as one would a porous plaster.

"But those people are past masters in the art of making pottery. They have been at it for years and turn out some beautifully colored water jars, bowls and such things. Altogether they are a picturesque people, and a visit to them is well worth the climb up to their rocky home if one happens to be in that part of the country."

We hope for his speedy recovery.

A Sturdy Centenarian

"It's a grand thing to be alive and have good health," is the philosophy of Mr. William Brown, of Mottingham Farm, near Eltham, England, who maintains towards life an outlook of invincible optimism, and who is now over 102 years old.

"I eat well and sleep well," he confessed, "and can smoke my cigar and take my glass of grog with any man. I'm getting a trifle more dull in my ears, but it comforts me to know I never turned a deaf ear to any who were in want. I am glad to think there are some to-day who are better off because I gave them a helping hand."

Mr. Brown, when he grows reminiscent, has memories worth the telling. Among his early acquaintances was George Stephenson, the great engineer—"the best of all the George," he calls him. "I had many a talk with him, and helped him to make the railway from Liverpool to Chester, and helped him to unload the first engine that ran on the Great Western at Mordenhead."

Mr. Brown's memory is as sound as his health. He recalls that he earned his first money when, at the age of eleven years, he worked on the construction of the first railway from Chester to Liverpool. He was a keen and industrious worker, and later, a contractor, he laid a line of railway from Erit to Woolwich.

Mr. Brown is very proud of the fact that he rose entirely without influence, by his own unaided efforts. He took Mottingham Farm in 1833. Thirty years ago he started a "Beggars' Rest," where he gave a night's lodgings to destitute wayfarers.

The old gentleman is farming 105 acres of land rented from the Crown, and in addition to this at one time he worked a farm of 400 acres, and never kept an account or put a figure on paper. Yet he knew his expenditure and income to a penny. "You can," he said, "if you keep things in your own hands and be master in your own house." Mr. Brown was born in Shropshire.

If Thin, Nervous,
Run Down, Depressed,
This Will Help!

The wear and strain of life has tended in recent years to produce nervous debility in a large percentage of our population.

Thousands are affected with a feeling they can't exactly describe. They are always tired and droopy, lack ambition, have poor appetite, look pale and suffer from depressing headaches and insomnia.

This condition is full of peril. It is the stepping stone to invalidism, the beginning of a shattered constitution.

We advise everyone in this condition to take a good medicine at once and try to get well while yet there is time.

Probably no better advice can be given than to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which have become famous in restoring the sick to good health. A general tuning up of the system at once takes place. The whole body is vitalized by rich and pure blood. The appetite is increased, food is digested and naturally strength rapidly increases. Headaches go because the bowels are regulated and all wastes are carried off.

There is no experiment about using Dr. Hamilton's Pills because they certainly restore the sick, as a trial will quickly prove. Just as good for the old as the young, and suitable to the needs of women and children. This grand family medicine should be in every home.

She hated Walters with a half-instinctive hatred that reflection showed her was justified; but beyond the concession he had made Lawrence would not be moved. On the surface, so to speak, he was logical and she was not. She was sure Walters had plotted to leave him on the couloir, although she admitted that he had meant to save his life when he turned dizzy upon the trunk. It was possible that he had yielded to sudden generous emotion, but she did not accept the explanation. The fellow was cold-blooded and calculating; she thought he had deliberately let his opportunity pass, because, after this, nobody would believe him guilty if he found another. But he must not find an opportunity, and it was a keen relief to know that Foster would soon arrive. She had not told Lawrence yet; it might be better to let Foster make an excuse for his visit.

When it began to get dark, she stood near the glass front of the veranda and glanced at her watch. She could see for some distance down the valley and knew that the smoke of a locomotive would spread in a dark cloud across the tops of the pines. The train was late, but there was no smoke yet. It was a long climb from sea level at Vancouver Inlet and in winter the line was sometimes blocked. There was no obvious ground for alarm, but somehow she was worse afraid of Walters than before.

The massed pines gradually faded to a formless blur on the cold blue-grey slopes of snow. There was no sound from the valley but the roar of the river, and by and by a servant turned on the lamps. Lucy could now see outside and shivered as she looked at her watch. She hoped no accident had delayed the train.

In the meantime, Lawrence, who was sitting near her mother, had picked up a book, but put it down when Walters came in, and Lucy felt a curious twinge of repugnance as she glanced at him. It was a shrinking she sometimes experienced at the sight of a noxious insect. Yet there was nothing about Walters to excite aversion. He was rather a handsome man, and stood in a carefree pose, smiling at the group.

"The trouble about a pleasant time is that it comes to an end, and I'll have to pull out tomorrow," he said. "When are you going to give me the photographs you promised, Lawrence?"

"I'll get them now and you can choose which you like. They're in my room."

"I want one with Miss Stephen in it as well as yourself," Walters replied. "It will be something to remind me of our climbs."

"Send the boy for the packet," Lucy interposed.

"I think the drawer's locked; anyhow I don't want the boy to upset things," Lawrence objected.

"Then I'll go with you," said Walters. "It will save you taking the packet back and you can get ready for dinner while you are upstairs."

Lawrence got up. "Very well; we'll go now."

"Take the elevator, even if you have to wait," Lucy said as they went to the door.

Lawrence had chosen a room at the top of the building because the view was good and it got the sun early in the morning, but now and then walked up the stairs to see how fast he was recovering his strength. After a minute or two, Lucy heard the elevator start and its harsh rumble jarred her nerves. The electric lifts they use in Canada seldom run silently, and the elevator had not been working well. Lucy was annoyed that the sound disturbed her, and imagined she had not recovered from the shock got during the walk. She was nervous and admitted that she did not like Lawrence to be out of her sight when Walters was with him. She tried to persuade herself that this was foolish, but could not banish her uneasiness. Then Mrs. Stephen looked up.

"There's the train; I didn't hear it stop." Lucy listened. She had forgotten the train for the last few minutes, and it seemed to be going fast. The sharp snorting of the mountain engine and rhythmic clang of wheels seemed to indicate that its long climb had not been interrupted. The Montreal express did not stop at the flag station unless the conductor was warned. She felt daunted as she realized that Foster might not have come, and she had not told her mother she had telegraphed for him.

A few minutes later she heard steps outside, then the door opened, and she felt a thrill of satisfaction as Foster came in with Pete. He looked grave and rather hot, as if he had been walking fast, but it was strangely comforting to see him. Besides, she liked his big companion, who waited with Scottish calm.

Foster bowed to Mrs. Stephen and then turned to Lucy.

"Is Lawrence all right?"

"Yes. He overfired himself this morning, but is better now." Foster looked relieved. "Is Walters here?"

"He goes tomorrow." "Ahh!" said Foster, as if he thought this important. "I should have arrived yesterday if your message had come earlier. I got it just after the train started in the morning."

Mrs. Stephen looked at her daughter, but Lucy offered no explanation. Foster's abruptness disturbed her. He obviously wanted to understand the situation, but seemed to think he had no time to lose.

"I sent the telegram half an hour before the office closed and as the agent goes east you ought to have got it in the evening," she said.

"Then it must have been kept back. Where's Lawrence now?"

"He went to his room with Walters about ten minutes since."

Foster beckoned Pete. "Then I'll go straight up; I know the number."

They went out and Lucy sat down, feeling disturbed but somewhat comforted. It was plain that Foster shared her fears and knew more than she did, but in another minute or two he would join his comrade, and Lawrence would be safe when he was there.

In the meantime Walters lighted a cigarette Lawrence gave him in his room and sat down to examine the photographs. There were a number of views of the mountains and a group of figures occupied the foreground of several. A guest at the hotel with some talent for photography had taken the pictures, and after a time Walters picked out two in which Lucy and Lawrence appeared. "I'll take these, if I'm not robbing you," he said and waited until Lawrence put on a Tuxedo jacket, when he resumed: "Well, I suppose we had better go down. Are you coming?"

He went out and as Lawrence crossed the floor to turn off the light, called back: "I forgot the pictures; they're on the bureau. The elevator's coming up and I'll keep it when it's here."

Lawrence told him to do so. The lift had stopped between floors on their ascent, and the electric light inside it had gone out, while the boy said something about his not being able to run it much longer. The photographs, however, were not on the bureau and Lawrence searched the room before he found them on the bed. Then he turned off the light and went into the passage, which was rather dark. The lamp at the shaft was not burning, but he could see Walters beckoning at the gate.

"He wants to get down before the motor stops," the latter said.

Lawrence hurried along the passage, and when he reached the shaft Walters put his hand on the folding ironwork.

"Come along; his light's out," he said to Lawrence, and added, as if to somebody in the lift: "Start her off! I'll shut the gate."

Lawrence stepped forward and then clutched the ironwork as his advanced foot went down into empty space. Instead of the floor of the lift, there was a dark gap beneath him, and he knew he had come very near to plunging down the shaft. He hung over it, with one foot on the edge and his hand on an iron bar, and looked at the black hole with horror as he braced himself for the effort to swing his body back. There was some strain upon his right arm, because his right knee was bent and his other leg dangled over the shaft. His hold on the ironwork had saved him and he must use it to regain the passage.

Next moment a hand fastened on his wrist and he thought Walters had come to his help. But the fellow was stupid; he ought to have seized his shoulder. Then the sweat ran down his face as he guessed the truth. Walters had not come to help; he meant to throw him down the shaft.

He set his teeth and felt the veins on his forehead swell with the effort he made. He was in horrible danger and must fight for his life. Walters was trying to pull his hand off the bar, but he resolved that if the fellow succeeded, he should go down the shaft with him. But although his situation was desperate, he did not mean to fall.

Then Walters' fingers slipped away and something jarred Lawrence's knuckles as he got a firmer hold. The brute had struck him with a pistol butt and the pain was sharp, but he did not let go. Though his muscles were badly strained and his brain struggled with numbing horror, he could think. Walters could have made him loose his grasp had he used his knife, but the thing must look like an accident and there must be no cut to show. The fellow had set a cunning trap for him, but he might escape yet.

Then he thought he heard steps, but his hearing was dull, for there was a sound like bells in his ears and the hand fastened on his wrist again. He arched his back to ease the strain on his arm and wondered vaguely how long he could hold on. Afterwards, he calculated that he had hung over the shaft for a minute or two.

Suddenly his antagonist's grasp slackened and his hand was loose. There were running steps, somebody seized his arm and pulled him strongly back. As he staggered across the passage he heard a heavy blow. Walters, reeling past, struck the wall and leaned against it with blood on his white face. He put his hand into his pocket, but a man sprang forward and grappled with him.

They lurched away from the wall and fell down the stairs. Another man ran down after them, and Lawrence, who felt very limp, followed awkwardly. There were lights on the next landing and he saw the struggling men strike the banisters and stop. One had his hand loose and held a pistol; his tense, savage face was upturned. The man who had gone down after them stopped and struck him with his fist. The struggle stopped, and Lawrence sat down on the steps and tried to pull himself together. He knew now how his illness had weakened him.

Then Foster came up the stairs, very hot and breathless, with his jacket torn, and stopping beside Lawrence, forced a smile.

"It's lucky I got here when I did," he said. "The brute yonder stopped me coming yesterday."

Foster did not remember his reply but got up and went down to where Walters lay unconscious. As he reached the spot the hotel manager and a waiter arrived.

"What's the matter? Is he dead?" the manager asked.

"I don't know," said Foster coolly.

"It will save the police some trouble if he is."

"But I want to know what's happened."

Foster indicated a pistol lying on the steps. "That's his; he tried to use it. I'll tell you about the thing later. In the meantime, you can take him to his room and telegraph for the police." He paused and beckoned to Pete. "Go with them and don't lose sight of him until I come. He'll probably come round soon."

"Well," said Pete drily, "I'm thinking he'll no be very sensible for a while yet, but I'll see he doesn't get away."

He and the waiter picked up Walters, and Foster turned to Lawrence.

"Now I'd better wash and straighten myself up. Perhaps you can lend me a jacket."

Lawrence laughed, a rather strained laugh. "Certainly, come along. You're a curious combination, partner. I've called you romantic, but you're not a sentimental when you get into action."

NN
Run Down

Foster did not know what Lawrence told Lucy, because he was occupied for some time in his room. His lip was cut, his face was bruised, and there was a lump on his head where he had struck the steps. After he had attended to the injuries and ironed at his reflection in the glass, he rang the bell, and asking for some paper took out his fountain pen. It was not easy to write, but there was something to be done that had better not be put off. He knew now what the gang were capable of, and meant to leave record, in case an accident of the kind to which his comrade had nearly fallen a victim, happened to him. Moreover, it might be a safeguard to let his antagonists know that they could not destroy his evidence if they took his life.

He related his adventures in Scotland, his pursuit of Daly, and his surprises about the gang, and then going down, asked the hotel clerk to witness his signature and put the document in the safe. After this, he went to the veranda, where Lucy came to him with shining eyes.

"Jake," she said with emotion. "I feel we would be safe as soon as you arrived. If you knew how I listened for the train and longed for your step! But the wretch has hurt you; your face is bruised and cut."

Foster, who felt embarrassed, laughed. "My face will soon recover its usual charm, and if it's any comfort, the other fellow looks, and no doubt feels, much worse." Then he turned to Lawrence, who sat near. "You have evidently been telling Miss Stephen a highly-colored tale."

"Lucy!" she corrected him. "I'm not going to call you Mr. Foster. You're our friend—mother's and mine—as well as Lawrence's." She stopped and shuddered. "But you shall not make a joke of what you did! What might have happened won't bear thinking of. If you hadn't come in time!"

Foster, seeing her emotion, glanced at Mrs. Stephen, begging her to interfere, but her strained smile indicated that her feelings harmonized with the girls. Then Lawrence interposed with a grin.

"Jake always does come in time, that's one of his virtues. He's the kind of man who's there when he's wanted. I don't know how he does it, because he's not really clever."

"Lawrence," said Lucy severely, "sometimes you're not as humorous as you think."

"Then I hope I'm tactful, because you're making poor Jake feel horribly awkward. I believe he thought you wanted to kiss him and was very nearly running away."

Lucy blushed and Lawrence responded: "He can't deny it; Jake, you know you would have run away! However, I knew what I was doing when I made him my partner some time ago. Jake has a romantic imagination that now and then leads him into trouble, but although it's perhaps as much luck as genius, when he undertakes a thing he puts it over. For example, there was the saw-mill!"

Lucy stopped him with a gesture. "We are not going to talk about the saw-mill. It was your—I mean our—troubles Jake plunged into, and pluck that can't be damned is better than genius. But you're an English borderer and therefore half a Scot; you hate to let people guess your feelings."

"Jake lens," said Lawrence smiling. "Before very long you'll be a borderer, too."

Lucy's eyes were very soft as she turned to Foster. "Then I must adopt your customs, I think they have a motto, 'Dinna forget'."

To Foster's relief, the hotel manager came in and looked at the two ladies hesitatingly. Neither took the hint and Lucy said, rather sharply, "Well?"

"Mr. Walters has come round and demands to be let out of his room. Your man's there, Mr. Foster, and won't let him move."

"Pete's splendid!" said Lucy. "I haven't thanked him yet. Perhaps you had better go, Lawrence, but take Jake."

Foster beckoned the manager and when they were outside asked: "When do you expect the police?"

"Some time tomorrow."

"Then we must watch the fellow closely until they come."

They stopped at a room on the second floor, and the manager frowned when he turned the handle of the door, which would not open.

"Who's there the noo?" a sharp voice demanded.

Foster laughed as he answered, the door was opened, and they saw Walters, who looked much the worse for the struggle, lying on a couch, while

A Frightful Death, Suffocated by Asthma

The Dread of Such an Unhappy End Oppresses Every Sufferer

Every sufferer from Asthma knows the terror, the abject fear that overcomes them when struggling for breath. The old-fashioned remedies may relieve, but never cure. Best results come from Catarrhozone, which cures Asthma after hope is abandoned. It's because Catarrhozone kills the asthma germ that it cures. Choking spells and labored breathing are relieved, suffocating sensations and less of breath are cured. Every trace of asthma is driven from the system, and even old chronic experience immediate relief and lasting cure. Equally good for Bronchitis, throat trouble and Catarrh. The large one dollar outfit includes the inhaler and lasts two months, sold by all dealers or from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

He stood grimly on guard. Walters glanced at Foster.

"You're something of a surprise," he said. "We didn't expect much from you."

"That's a mistake other people have made and regretted," Lawrence remarked.

"Well," said Walters, "I demand to be let out."

Foster shook his head. "I think not. The room is comfortable and you won't be here long."

"What are you going to do with me?"

"Hand you to the police."

"On what ground?"

"Attempted murder, to begin with," said Foster dryly.

Pure Seed and Increased Prosperity

Importance of Pure Seed Is Becoming More and More Recognized By Farmers

The importance of pure seed is becoming more and more recognized by farmers in Western Canada. There is no doubt that when this point is fully appreciated the high average crop yields of the prairie provinces will be still greater increased. No less than 40,000,000 bushels is the approximate quantity of seed required to sow the 25,000,000 acres of land devoted to field crops in Western Canada each year. These crops,

Paving the Way For Permanent Peace

London.—The Paris correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says on high authority that "In order to avoid perils which would inevitably arise if preliminary peace terms are not drafted until such time as the various commissions shall have finished their labors, and have presented their respective reports, the representatives of the great powers have drawn up certain proposals which seem ample to constitute the basis of the first treaty, or one analogous to that signed at Versailles in 1871."

The correspondent adds that these proposals are under the consideration of the "inner council of four," Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando and President Wilson, which has temporarily superseded the council of ten, and that this arrangement will greatly expedite decisions.

"A final settlement will not be aimed at," continues the correspondent, "but the terms will be sufficiently firm, drastic and definite to provide for an enduring peace, justify in large measure early demobilization, simplify the grave international food problem and pave the way for speedy industrial reconstruction and financial reorganization.

The principal aims of the proposals now before the inner council are:

"1. To ensure ample securities for the future protection of France, especially on her eastern frontier;

"2. To establish a strong Italy, with a formidable northern barrier against aggression;

"3. To create a strong Poland.

"4. To found a league of nations pledged on material as well as moral grounds to the preservation of world peace."

Vote to Keep Rhine Territory

Meetings of Protest in Germany Against "Enslaving Peace"

Paris.—The Prussian national assembly has voted unanimously against the relinquishment by Germany of any of the Rhine territory, especially the Saar basin, according to German dispatches reaching here. The advices also tell of meetings of protest multiplying in all parts of Germany against what is called an "enslaving peace." According to the Zurich correspondent of the journal, these manifestations are being organized by the government through Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the foreign secretary.

Mons Welcomes Canadians

Paris.—The municipal council of Mons gave an official reception to General Loomis, officer commanding the Third Canadian Division, which formed part of the first army which liberated Mons on November 11.

This Young Farmer Is Enthusiastic

In the Good Health Brought by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Frank Corrigan Suffered From Sore Back for Two Years, But One Box Of Dodd's Kidney Pills Chased Away All His Troubles.

Island Brook, Que., Mar. 31. (Special).—Mr. Frank Corrigan, a well-known young farmer living near here is spreading the good news that his sore back, from which he suffered for two years, has vanished, almost miraculously, before a short treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Yes, I am completely cured," Mr. Corrigan says with enthusiasm, "and Dodd's Kidney Pills did it."

"My troubles started from a strain and I suffered for two years. My back ached, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing, and I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. I perspired freely with the least exertion. I was depressed and low spirited, and I was troubled with pressure and sharp pain on the top of my head."

"I tried the doctor without getting lasting relief, but one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills gave such prompt and sure relief because all of Mr. Corrigan's troubles came from his kidneys. They are a kidney remedy pure and simple. They have a long record of kidney cures. Ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Must Pay Own Way

Soldiers' Dependents Who Left Canada After Signing of Armistice Return at Own Expense

Ottawa.—Owing to the fact that a number of soldiers' dependents are leaving for England in the expectation of returning with their soldier relatives, the order in council in regard to expenses of repatriation has been amended. It now provides that no expenditure shall be incurred by the government in the repatriation of any soldiers' dependents who left Canada for the United Kingdom, France or Belgium, on or after November 11, 1918.

Those, therefore, who have left Canada for the United Kingdom since the signing of the armistice will have to return at their own expense.

ALL CHILDREN LOVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious, for bad breath or sour stomach

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Russians to Fight Bolsheviks

Three Hundred Thousand Men Want Arms and Moral Backing to Help Restore Order

Paris.—Boris Savinkoff, acting minister of war in the Kerensky government, declared in an interview given here that 300,000 Russians are ready to fight against Bolsheviks but lack arms and equipment.

"If the entente will give us moral and financial support and if it will furnish us with the material," said the ex-minister, "it would have no need to furnish men. With the peoples directly interested—the Czechoslovaks, Jugo-Slavs and Poles—we could place a barrier against Bolshevism without the military intervention of the entente."

Germany to Study Cause of War

Copenhagen.—A Weimar dispatch says it is understood that a provisional law will shortly create a state tribunal to enquire into events at the opening of the war and during its progress. Such an inquiry has long been demanded, the dispatch adds, on the ground of foreign and home politics.

Abandon Adriatic Blockade

Paris.—The Italian delegation to the peace conference notified the conference of the abandonment of the military and commercial blockade in the Adriatic by which trading in the Adriatic returns to conditions before the war except that until peace is declared. Allied warships will have the right to search merchantmen.

Strikes in Spain

London.—A wireless dispatch from Madrid says that strikes have been declared in several towns including Valencia and Alcoyo. Agitations are in progress in Madrid and Corunna. The censorship put into operation forbids the publication of strike news, labor troubles and the movement of troops.

Disastrous to French

Secretary of War Talks on Russian Situation

London.—Discussing the situation in Russia, Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of war, in the house of commons said that events during the last two or three months in Ukraine had been extremely disastrous to the French. He said they had entered from the south and had gone some distance from the coast when they were confronted by superior forces and encountered hostility from the people. The secretary pointed out that this latter feature was something which must be carefully weighed, as it showed the danger that might result from rash or ill-considered action.

The secretary said that Hungary had undergone a serious political change and showed a disposition to resist the will of the allies "under the garb of Boishevism," but that there was no official confirmation of the rumored invasion of Hungary by the Bolsheviks.

Poland, with Germany behind it, he said, was in a very anarchistic condition and might degenerate under Bolshevik pressure and attack. He pointed out that the position of Rumania was also one of anarchy.

Suspend German Paper

Says Allies Planning Monstrous Peace for the Gentle Hun

Coblenz.—The morning and evening editions of the Coblenz Gazette were ordered suspended for three days by General Dickman for criticizing the allies in connection with an article on developments in Hungary. This was the first offence of the newspaper, the editor of which is Dr. Karl Mehrmann.

Commenting upon the displacement of the people's republic by the present government, the article said the change was made as a result of allied demands and added:

"The responsibility is to be placed upon the deluded entente imperialists who are thus preparing for their own destruction and that of the monstrous peace they have planned."

French Post Abolished

Rheumatism In Back and Leg

Sometimes So Bad Could Not Walk Pain Almost Unbearable Found a Cure After Five Years of Suffering

Sangudo, Alta., April 8.—Here is more proof that the way to get rid of pain is by cleansing the system of poisonous impurities.

When the kidneys fail to do their work of purifying the blood there is sure to be pain and suffering. Lumbo-bago, rheumatism, backache, headache, pains in the limbs, are the natural result. Mr. Robinson found that when he got the action of the kidneys corrected by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, that the pains and aches disappeared. Cure was effected eight years ago, so it can safely be called lasting.

Mr. J. A. Robinson, Sangudo, Alta., writes:

"I suffered from kidney trouble for years. I also had rheumatism in my back and down one leg, and sometimes I could not walk. The rheumatism would settle in my hip or the calf of my leg and the pain was most unbearable. I tried three different doctors, but it was of no avail. I suffered in this way for about five years. Then Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were recommended to me, and before I had used the first box I was completely cured. It is now eight years since I first took them, and I am in the best of health today. I always keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on hand and take one occasionally."

(Mr. D. T. Kuhn, Commissioner of Oaths, says: "Mr. J. A. Robinson, Sangudo, Alta., is personally known to me, and I have every reason to believe him to be a man of his word under these and all other circumstances.")

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting substitutes or imitations, for they only disappoint.

Britain Will Control Own Customs

London.—Replying to Brigadier General Croft in the house of commons, Right Hon. Andrew Bonar Law said that no agreement will be entered into at Paris which would interfere with the full control of the United Kingdom or the dominions over their own customs duties.

Paris.—Persistent rumors that all Europe is on the verge of a financial collapse are not justified by the facts, a prominent United States financial expert, who has been engaged for many months in studying the problems facing the peace conference, said in a statement recently.

Conditions were serious, he added, but not panicky, and will doubtless be relieved greatly when peace is signed and the embargoes lifted. He predicted that England will be stronger within a year than ever before because of her unusual commercial enterprise and the courage with which she meets her debts by taxation.

Great Britain, with a war debt of $40,000,000,000, the financier added, is in a situation comparing favorably with her debt and per capita wealth at the conclusion of the Napoleonic wars. The allies owe Great Britain between $9,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000. The financier stated that only about four billions of the twenty billions of dollars invested abroad by Englishmen before the war had been disposed of.

Dominion Troops Parade in London

London.—It is understood that Lord Milner, British secretary for the colonies, is giving his personal attention to the question of the ceremonial parade through London by the Dominion troops before their departure for home.

Many newspapers here are constantly expressing regret that the overseas soldiers are being allowed to depart practically without a send-off.

Weather Supplied

Montreal.—The Marconi Wireless company has completed arrangements for supplying airgrams to aviators who may attempt to cross the Atlantic.

A complete series of bulletins about weather conditions over the area to be traversed will be compiled from advices to ships at sea and will be sent out from the company's Glace Bay station and picked up by the aviators.

Splendid Record Achieved during 1918

THE year 1918 was for the business of life assurance a year of supreme achievement. Owing to the combined effect of the war and the influenza epidemic, death claims were unusually high. The payment of these claims enabled the Companies to render an unprecedented measure of public service, and to fulfill to a more noteworthy degree than ever previously the beneficent purpose for which they were founded. The record achieved during 1918 by the Sun Life of Canada was one of particularly striking success. For the first time in the Company's history new assurances paid for exceeded Fifty Million Dollars. The growth in size, strength and prosperity accentuates the Company's position as not merely the leader among Canadian life offices, but one of the great insurance corporations of the world. The Company's financial power is emphasized by its large Assets, Income and Surplus. During the year $7,460,000 was added to the Assets, which at December 31st, had reached the huge total of $97,620,000. The Income is now $21,651,000, while the undivided Surplus is $8,027,000.

(Farmers cut this out)

Careful Straining and proper Cooling of Milk in water at this time of year is very essential to guard against loss. Both Dairymen and Manufacturers take big chances of loss if the Milk is not cooled just as carefully during winter months as in the summer. Do not trust to weather conditions. The Milk will not cool in the centre of the can fast enough to prevent high acidity unless proper stirring is applied.

Neapolis News

Sunshine, rain, gophers, crows and ducks have made their appearance and surely spring is with us, too.

Billy Devolin returned from Calgary last week, having spent two months in the motor school there. We'll all take our Fords to Bill now, for he's the doctor.

Mrs. Stewart Tighe was a weekend visitor to Calgary last week.

The Neapolis school is planning on a big time April 11th. Don't forget the date. A fine program, with a one-step and fox-trot to follow. Ladies, bring boxes filled for two, and everybody come.

Nelson Gooder landed in Didsbury last Saturday. Having just returned from "other there," Nels felt so good after doing his bit towards killing the ex-Kaiser, that he took unto himself a wife. We are not sure whether she's English, Irish or French. However, he's a brave fellow. Why? Because it's said married life is worse than war, and yet he tackled it!

Mrs. James Devolin, Mrs. Duncan and daughter Maria spent a couple of days at Calgary visiting Hector Duncan, who is at the Holy Cross Hospital. The latest report from Hector is that he is doing nicely, which all his friends are glad to hear.

George Morach has been visiting his Neapolis friends. George had a sad accident happen him, most of his fingers on both hands being cut off.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie St. Clair were Sunday visitors at the Ed. Blain home.

Merril Barnes is entertaining the crew.

It would be a good thing to have plenty of gas when you go joy-riding, and also a funnel—eh, boys?

John Riener's family are now Neapolis residents and are nicely settled on the Stewart farm, recently vacated by Ray R Johnson, who has moved farther east, near Mayton.

Come, Jutland. Give us some more news! We don't all know what a corn crib looks like, but have an idea it's something with a roof on, or Sim would have fell in instead of going over it.

Church service at the Neapolis school next Sunday.

Rosebud Items

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scheidt were guests with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Perron on Sunday evening.

Mrs. C. J. Coate and children are spending a few days at her brother's, Mr. L. C. Ault's home.

Some of the farmers of this vicinity are at work on the land.

Mrs. Burgess, after a siege of illness, has now recovered.

The Gore service which was announced for last Sunday evening, was a mistake. It will be next Sunday evening; also the Gore prayer meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fulkerth on Thursday evening.

Charlie Chapin and family are preparing to go north soon.

The Rosebud Literary will hold its last meeting at Rosebud schoolhouse on Monday evening, April 14. A program will be given, after which a "Shoe Box" Social will be held. A good turn-out is desired.

You need not send away for that printing, the Pioneer office is well equipped for the work

Bow! Wow!!

"Some people never get on," observed the man with the gold chain.

"That's very true, sir," replied the man with no chain at all. He was a generous disposition, and had lent his to a relative.

"Take my brother, for instance," resumed the gold chained one scornfully. "He couldn't make anything pay. I started him once, as a pork merchant at Brixton. Fine shop, too! splendid position! But he failed."

"Why did he fail?" asked his companion curiously.

The man of money gave an exclamation of disgust.

"Why did he fail?" he echoed.
"Well, I went down to his shop to find out. And it seems that he had bought some sausages from Barking, and there, as large as life, was a ticket in the window. Try our Barking sausages."

DIRECTORS' REPORT ON DAVIDSON STRIKE

Directors of the Davidson Gold Mines on their return from the property Monday night spoke with enthusiasm concerning the new ore body opened up last week at the 500-foot level. The find has established the fact that the property is rich at depth. One Director said:

"We found that a cut being driven across the ore body had penetrated 30 feet without having reached the foot wall. It had passed through a vein of uniform values which was impregnated with free gold. The average values over this width of 30 feet will run high as compared with results of the more prominent Porcupine Producers. The vein is estimated to be 40 feet wide, and the assay results were highly satisfactory."

The above statement is sufficient to indicate to the reader the immense possibilities of the Davidson Mine. The big vein is rapidly being developed up, and we think that announcements of first importance will follow from time to time.

Indians Ready for Work

Regina, Sask. — W. M. Graham, commissioner of Indian affairs for the four western provinces, has returned from Ottawa and stated that during his conference with the officials everything had been arranged for the agricultural operations of the Indians of the west for the year 1919. All the machinery necessary for the working of the various tracts of land, which total over 100,000 acres this year, is in readiness and the Indians will soon be at work preparing for seeding.

British Columbia's Industries

According to the report of the manufacturers' association of British Columbia the productive value of industry for 1918 in the province was approximately $200,000,000 and employment was given in connection with this industry to 86,000 persons. This included all classes of industry, basic and general, including ship building.

Minard's Liniment Cures, Burns, etc.

Heart Palpitated Could Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells.

When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Greives, Apsley, Ont., writes: "I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anaemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat.

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

Moose Jaw, Sask. — There is heavy demand for farm labor, according to E. M. Hagen, of the government employment bureau. City work is very quiet as yet, but there is in the neighborhood of 100 unfilled positions available. Wages are ranging around $65 per month for the season.

Ground in Good Shape

Calgary, Alta. — The heavy snowfalls in the southern portion of the province have improved the ground wonderfully for spring sowing. There was little frost in the ground and the land absorbed all the moisture.

What Is He Worth?

Value of the Bull in Building Up a Profitable Herd

At a certain agricultural meeting a discussion arose regarding the relative value of the bull. A grizzled old farmer arose to his feet and said: "My experience is that the bull is half the herd; yes, and he's darn near all of it if he's a bad one."

An admirer of Shorthorns puts it this way: A steer of inferior breeding goes to market weighing 900 lbs and sells for 8c per pound. On the same day a steer of the same age sired by a registered Shorthorn bull, goes to market weighing 1500 lbs and sells for 14½c per lb. The total price for the one is $72, for the other $217.50, a difference of $145.50. In other words, the steer by the registered Shorthorn bull sells for as much money as three of the others. It is just possible that a registered Shorthorn bull is the most profitable investment on the farm where beef production is followed.

At a recent Ontario provincial winter fair, the steer which was beaten in his class only by the steer which afterwards won the grand championship of the show, was out of a little scrubby cow of no particular breeding. How did it happen that such a miserable little cow produced such a good steer? The answer is simple. The sire of the steer was a good Shorthorn bull.

Perhaps an independently wealthy man can afford to use a scrub bull if he wants to, but the man who has to make his money off the farm cannot afford to use a scrub bull at any price—not even though received as a gift. The difference in the value of the progeny will pay many times over the difference between the price of a good bull and a scrub.—G. E. Day, Sec. D.S.B.A.

THE SPRING TONIC FOR PALE, THIN PEOPLE

If You Want to Gain in Weight and Recover Your Appetite, Energy and Ambition, Try This Well Known Remedy

With the passing of winter many people feel weak, depressed and easily tired. The body lacks that vital force and energy which pure blood alone can give. In a word, while not exactly sick, the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon them, and a blood-building, nerve-restoring tonic is needed to give renewed health and energy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round blood builder and nerve tonic, but they are especially useful in the spring. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood, and with this new blood returning strength, cheerfulness and good health quickly follows.

If you are pale and sallow, easily tired, or breathless at the least exertion; if your complexion is poor, or if you are troubled with pimples or eruptions, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just what you need to put you right. If you have twinges of rheumatism, are subject to headaches or backaches, if you are irritable or nervous, if your sleep does not refresh you, or your appetite is poor, you need the treatment which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills alone can give—you need the new blood, new health and new energy this medicine always brings.

A COMPLETE WRECK

Mrs. C. Forsythe, R.R. No. 2, Fisherville, Ont., says: "At the age of fourteen my daughter Viola was feeling very much run down in the spring. Then she was attacked with whooping cough which left her a complete wreck. She had no appetite, could not sleep well nights and was subject to chills which sometimes kept her in bed for the day. She was doctoring steadily, but not apparently getting the least benefit, and I naturally grew very anxious. One of my neighbors suggested giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a box. When she began using the pills she weighed only 87 pounds. Before the box was all gone I sent and got six more boxes, and under their use she constantly grew stronger. Her appetite improved, the color came back to her cheeks, she could sleep well, and feels and looks like a different person, and with all this while using the pills she gained 20 pounds in weight."

GAINED IN WEIGHT

Mrs. M. B. Rickett, Kitchener, Ont., says: "I was weak, run down, and losing weight when I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took the pills steadily for a month, and the difference they made in my condition was most gratifying. I gained both in strength and weight, and feel since I used the pills like a new person. I also recommended the use of the pills to my daughter-in-law, who was pale, thin and weak. When she began using the pills she weighed only 103 pounds and when she discontinued their use she weighed 137 pounds. For all weak people I think there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

A SPRING COLD

Mrs. Chas. Winegarden, Delhi, Ont., says: "Last spring my daughter Ruby was taken with a bad cold. She seemed weak, had a constant pain in her side, grew pale, and as the remedies usually used in cases of this kind did not help her we feared she was going into a decline. I decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got six boxes. Before she had used them all, she was again well and strong. The cough had left her, she had a good appetite, the pain in her side disappeared, and a nice rosy color had returned to her cheeks. I have therefore much reason to speak warmly in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Egg Money on the Farm is Almost Clean Profit

On the average farm chickens get but little attention. They scratch for themselves, roost where a roosting place can be found and lay eggs in the hay mow or wherever the chickens happen to be.

The only difficulty with that system is that the number of eggs produced doesn't make the egg money look very big.

Fortunately the average farm programme for chickens is changing—high priced eggs and high priced feed are both responsible.

Modern Chicken Houses

are appearing on many farms—more attention is being given to lighting, ventilation, feeding, correct hatching time, etc., so that chickens are rapidly becoming good money makers, and in spite of high priced feed most farm flocks are producing a good margin of velvet.

There is room in the egg market for the products of a great many more high class, well kept farm flocks.

You can get at our office help in planning and material for any kind of chicken equipment—it should be attended to now in order to get the best results next fall and winter.
